

Bigtime Batty Bake Sale

That tea time staple fuelled by flakey flapjacks, bulging brownies, powdered pastries, and classy cupcakes!

For more fundraising ideas from table tennis throwdowns to a quintessential quiz, visit www.batfoundation.com

The Bake Sale:

Organise a team or community cake sale to help beat Alzheimer's. Whip out your whisks, and crack on with the baking...

Getting started:

Pick a date and invite everyone for a day of delicious desserts and indulgence.

Encourage people to bring some baked goodies to sell

On the day:

It's a bake sale, so first off you'll need to slice and price everything ready to sell.

Next pop the kettle on and ready the tea and coffees...it wouldn't be a bake sale otherwise. Don't forget the milk and sugar.

Just time to lay out the napkins, rip off the clingfilm, and ready the cash box before the happy hungry hoards come and get their confectionary fix.

Some handy hints. 1) Keep prices to whole figures for ease, 2) offer up deals on entire cakes, and 3) drop prices later in the day.

Here are some extra slices to add to your bake sale...

Goopy Garden Party...

Why settle for just cakes? Why not up your bake sale to full blown British Garden Party. Stack up the Strawberries and Cream, pop open the Pimms, and bring the summer to you, whatever the weather.

Batty Bake Off...

Unleash those inner Mary Berry's with a big batty bake-off. See who can make the best ping pong themed cake. Add on a little extra donation for those wanting to have a vote.

Chilli Challenges...

Turn up the heat with some chilli challenges.

- 1) Chilli Roulette: an extra donation for the one who gets the flame filled sliver.
- 2) Spice The Slice: a firey face-off with the slowest to finish making an extra donation.